

Getting to Halton Mill

Halton Mill is a low carbon workspace so we try to reduce the environmental impact of our activities. With this in mind, here are some greener ways to get here:

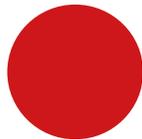

Bike or Foot

Follow the pleasant, flat, off-road cycle path from Lancaster to Halton (through to Caton) along the river.

NB: This will be closed for a year from November 2019. For an alternative cycle route see the 'Getting to the Mill' section of our website.

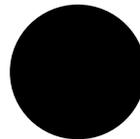

Showers and changing areas are available to use at the Mill, and there are several bike stations to lock up your bike.

Bus

The 49 bus from Lancaster to Carnforth goes directly to Halton and runs till 7:30pm, Mon–Sat.

The 81 bus from Lancaster to Kirkby Lonsdale travels along the A683 and stops by Denny Beck Lane – about a 15-minute walk from Halton Mill.

Car Share

If you must come by car, please consider sharing with others. If you are attending a regular class, ask if anyone is coming in the same direction as you.

Or you can check out liftshare.com and join the 'Lancashire Shared Wheels' section to link up with others travelling in your area (not just Mill users).

Everyone contributes financially, drivers can set 'ground rules' and every user has a profile which can be reviewed.

Parking

There are 14 parking bays and 1 disabled bay designated for Mill users.

Please do not park:

1. On Mill Lane
2. In the Green 'Forgebank Resident' spaces
3. On the grassy 'British Canoeist' spaces (between 1st Nov – end April)

Alternatively you can park next to the cycle path, just a short walk away over the other side of the River Lune.
